Context

Remote work has been around for a long time, and COVID-19 for sure gave this trend a very significant boost.

In most of the cases, the transition was not planned, and employees working remotely feel a disconnect with the company, its people, processes and culture.

For the majority of companies, people are the critical success factor, and keeping them healthy, safe, happy and motivated is a top priority.

Digital Workplace
Wellness

Solution

Digital Wellness caters to your remote employees' wellbeing, as an extension of your company that can assist, connect, inform, and socially include them.
